Storyline Trainer Vacancy

Full time, field based role with regular national travel

Who are we?

Cursim is Omniplex's learning design agency. We work with some of the most exciting brands in the world, creating digital learning courses on the widest variety of subjects you can imagine. It's not only cool to work here – it's a privilege, and an education in itself that pushes, inspires and challenges us every single day.

We are also experts in the world's best eLearning authoring tool – Articulate. Our customers come to us for our software expertise and a second-to-none training experience that inspires and motivates them to become experts themselves.

We are seeking to recruit a Storyline Trainer who will become part of our amazing story. You will deliver world-class training and create award-winning eLearning projects for global brands - pushing the boundaries of design, technology and media.

What does it take to be our next Storyline Trainer?

We're looking for someone who knows how to put on a great show – training is part subject matter expertise, part performance. To be successful with us, you'll need to be good at both. The knowledge will come from an uncontainable enthusiasm for software training and experience in inspiring and motivating a classroom full of delegates. You will already be a fan of Articulate Storyline - and will fast become an expert working with us!

Ideas are currency here. We constantly brainstorm, think outside the box and execute wildly creative projects and concepts to a slick and professional level that surprise and delight our customers. If you're excited about creating magic and calling it work, you'll fit right in.

The Role

The Storyline Trainer will deliver compelling classroom and virtual training to a wide variety of customers from every industry. You will be training experienced software users and novices alike, so knowing how to manage this dynamically in the training room is essential.

Presenting to groups of up to 20 learners, you'll deliver engaging training at company locations, customer sites and virtually via webinars, providing customers with the knowledge they need to succeed. Your training style will be so infectious, you will create raving fans every time.
